If a dress just isn't your thing, a jumpsuit is a modern and chic way to go. This relaxed outfit mixes modernity with tradition and is a classy option for those of you who prefer pants. If you instead really want to go against traditions, choose another color than white to express your style and make a wedding fashion statement.

The UK based wedding photographer Sussie Mellstedt brings us on an urban journey in East London. A minimalistic and modern bridal look is placed in a city environment which really highlights the bride. We love the cool imagery of this power bride and dare to say that we will see more of this kind of wedding fashion in 2019.

With a romantic styling in reddish-pink, the makeup matches the flowers in a flawless way.
